MOUNTAIN BREEZES. Enjoying Life at Rockbridge and the White Sulphur.

WHIRL OF PLEASURE.

Conching Parties, Progressive Eu chre, and Receptions-The Devotees of the Wheel-Springs Letters and Springs Letters-Late Arrivals.

(Correspondence of the Dispatch.) ROCKBRIDGE ALUM, VA., July 27 .-To look out of one's window and see the blue smoke rising from cottage chimney? here, and then read the Dispatch's report of the thermometer in Richmond being 96 degrees, will give some idea of the difference in temperature in the two places. This past heated spell has sent city peo ple to the mountains in large numbers. and Rockbridge is rapidly filling up. During June and part of July the company was mostly composed of invalids and those who had come for quiet and rest. and found it. But now the young element has come in, and are taking matters has their own hands. They don't want quiet, and so the gayeties are coming bick and fast.

Mrs. James Welch has inaugurated a wries of progressive cuchre parties-two meh week-which give great pleasure to number of people. The one Friday right was largely attended, and so ineresting as to rival the ball-room. Irst ladies' prize (a silver hat-brush) was laken by Mrs. Robert G. Cabell, of Richmond. Sunday service was held in the hotel parior by Rev. Thomas Jaceb, of Louisville, and Bishop Jackson preached one of his most nowerful sermons. He spoke entirely without notes and held his congregation spellbound by his eloquence, ferror, and profound reasoning. Such

A BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.

People have to have birthdays, even here, when there is nothing to mark the flight of time, and this week. Mr. J. Speed Smith, of Kentucky, amounced his, and his friends descriptions to celebrate it. Mr. Smith had been a great invalid, but since the marvellous recovery he has made here has been clamering for combread as if he were a Tuckahoe Virginian. So on this day a large cake of this dainty was prepared, carefully iced, and then crowned with candles. It would scarcely be fair to give exactly the number of these. Saike it to say that this was for him "the middlesday of shuman life." and no more need be told, edgen in such exatistion of mind and imagination and to descriptions of the magnificent panorama previous descriptions of the magnificent panorama previ

THE GREENBRIER WHITE.

Springs Letters and Springs Letters-The Pace of the Senson. (Special Correspondence of the Dispatch.) GREENBRIER WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, July 27.-In an editorial the Dispatch of last Sunday, under the caption "Letter-Writing, Old and New," comtion "Letter-Writing, Old and New," com-pares the springs letters of to-day with those of former days, regretting that the letters of the present are bare lists of names, mere accounts of entertainments, instead of descriptions of picturesque scenery, disquisitions upon the manners and habits of the people, reminiscences of famous men, etc. The home-like charms of the old-time springs letter referred to by the editor, which made one feel as if it were addressed by a personal friend, and which would enable you to ramble by entirely without notes and that has been executed to by the editor, which made one feel as if fervor, and profound reasoning. Such were the Gospei truths pleinly laid down that in this mixed assembly each one felt their power, and one lady said it was the best Presbyterian sermon she had ever heard, whilst another claimed it as being a true Reptist discourse. The Eoiscopalians were only too prond to claim as their own a preacher of such talent.

A BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.
People have to have birthdays, even here, when there is nothing to mark the flight of time, and this week, Mr. J. Speed Smith, of Kentucky, announced his, and his friends determined to celebrate it. Mr. Smith had been a great invalid, but since the marvellous recovery he has made here has been claimering for combread as if he were a Tuckahoe Virsinian. So on this day a large cake of this dainty was prepared, carefully iced, and then crowned with candles. It would recovered by feet to give exactly the num-opinion there are enough of them if they would devote themselves a little more to bounced the most delightful of the season, The first prize (a silver chain) was won by Judge Garrett, of Texas; the second (a bandsome book-cover) by Miss Cowling, of Louisville, and the third fa silver nail file) by Miss Pou, of Smithfield, Va.

Thursday afternoon the first coaching party of the season was given, and enjoyed by about twenty-five young people. The tally-hos, brightly decorated, and Grawn by four horses, presented a gay appearance, and the sound of the horns echoed and re-echoed through these hills.

The writer dwells upon the delicious, braciab atmosphere, refreshing breezes; gives point of the mercury, and winds up with the interesting information that "I sleep under a thick cotton quilt, a blanket, and sheet every night, and find myself uncomfortably cool in the morning."

The ride was first to the Alleghany Hotel, at Goshen; a short rest being made here, and then on to Cold Sulphur Springs. Then the stay was long enough to see this place and stir up much excitement amongst the guests. Then back to the Alleghany, where a delicious supper had been prepared, to which full justice was done, for driving in this atmosphere gives wonderful appetites.

The supper was followed by a dance in the beautiful bail-room, and then the drive back to Rockbridge. All pronounced this one of the most delightful excursions. Rockbridge has ever known.

Those who went were Mesdames Badger Brown, J. Mansfield Brown, Welch, Cabell, Dole, Gwathmey, Major and Mrs. John Luddlow, Mrs. Williams, Misses Brown, Cowling, Churchill, Howard, Leibermuth, Newsome, Williams, and Messis, Robertson, Cabril, Garrard, Gitliand, Phiniz, Stratton, White, and Gwathmey.

A RECEPTION.

Friday evening a reception was given by Mrs. J. Mansfield Brown, of Washing-loin, and Miss Emmie Williams, of Charbeiteville. These ladies occupy a cottage ha South Carolina Row, where this enterlainment was given. The veranda was inclosed by bright curtains, and most beautifully decorated with Chinese landers, showers, and plants. These mountains supply such decorations in ferns and mosses as would rouse the envy of any city florist, and these were used with freat taste throughout the rooms and on the tables. Softly-shaded lamps threw years becoming light upon the company was not become the search as the springs and the tables. And only man is vile."

The old-time customs at the springs were very much the same as those of to-day, the habits of thought, the manners, and traditions, but there is little encouragement to the correspondent to dwell upon them now. Names, costumes, entertainments, all amuse the readers more, and proprietors, editors, and guests must all be eatisfied while the poor correspondent suppresses the love of the beautiful, and cultivates the habit of looking for the material.

HIGH-WATER MARK.

The week at this Hot Springs has seen the high-water mark of the season, and yet without showing signs of abatement. Every room on the grounds is occupied, and yet each train brings in its number of guests to take the place of any that may leave.

The most marked social feature of the week was the serman given on Tuesday.

week was the german given on Tucsday night by Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Sterry. The Casino was the place, and the scene was a pretty one. This was the first german given in this splendid, new ball-room. The room itself is a delight to the eye, with its high ceiling, its splendid arrangement for regulating the heat. Its grand wood-fireplace, and its to the eye, with its high technic, splendid arrangement for regulating the heat, its grand wood-fireplace, and its deep band-stand, arranged with special regard to the acoustic properties.
